Workshop on Conflict Management

Conflict refers to some form of friction or discord arising within a group when the beliefs or actions of one or more members of the group are either resisted by or unacceptable to one or more members of another group. With the booming population and limited resources, the number of conflicts is more likely to increase, thus, making "Conflict Management" a necessity.

With an aim to educate students and develop "Conflict Management" as a life-enhancing skill, the Departments of English and Psychology organized a workshop on "Conflict management" on 7th February, 2018 in the Conference hall. The workshop was conducted by Dr. S. K. Mohanty, the Hon. Secretary (Development & Planning), Vanita Vishram.

In the first session, Dr. Mohanty gave a holistic overview, along with a conceptual understanding of conflict. A detailed explanation of the different theories of conflict and its relevance was also given. This workshop was designed to provide the participants

- A holistic overview and conceptual understanding of Conflict
- Generic definition and various theories of Conflict and its relevance
- Learning / Knowledge and skill to...
- ➤ Identify the Areas of 'Conflict'
- ➤ Identify the 'Stakeholders'
- ➤ Explore Potential Conflict-Resolution / Prevention Strategies

In the second session, nearly fifty students were divided into five groups. Each group was given a different case study. The groups gave presentation on their respective case studies, discussing the type of conflict, the area of 'conflict of interest', the stakeholders, and the means through which the conflict could be solved. Also, each group was assigned with a coordinator, who facilitated students. The second session was then followed by a feedback session where some of the students shared their experience and gave feedback on the workshop.
