On the 4th September, 2019 Department of Psychology organized a screening of the movie SPLIT. Split is a psychological thriller which focuses on a man named Kevin. Kevin is shown to be suffering from Dissociative Identity Disorder which is popularly known as the Multiple Personality Disorder. Kevin is shown to house 23 different personalities. As a part of TYBA Psychopathology syllabus the students were firstly explained the Dissociative Identity Disorder in details. During the movie the students were asked to analyse each personality and the formation of that personality. Every student participated in this discussion. And it was agreed upon that for such an extreme case to really exist would be very rare, nonetheless possible.

The feedback given by students was that studying theory was fun but actually seeing the disorders on the screen is another experience altogether. Overall it was great way to study dissociative identity disorders.
