

Event/Program: Orientation Lecture on AIDS Awareness

[About the Event]	Under the banner of NSS unit, Sheth P. T. Mahila College and Red ribbon club an orientation lecture was conducted for students of science unit. The program was aimed at creating an awareness among the youth about the AIDS; what are the risk factors responsible for its spread, what are its signs and symptoms, associated disease, treatment, fatality rate and present day situation of the AIDS cases in India and globally. It also targeted the briefing on discrimination encountered by the AIDS patients in our society. He also discussed that AIDS can not spread by shaking hands, sharing food etc with patients and through the bite of mosquito for which general public used to have phobia. An interaction with the positive patient (Mr. Pinkesh Mehta) was also the part of program who discussed the treatment modalities available present day that increases life expectancy and patient can live healthy life. He also discussed the how societal approach can help the patients to live the smoother life in this hard situation. Shri Pankaj Chaudhari, (Program manager, (National AIDS Control Programme), Sahyog Mahila Mandal, Muglisara, Surat) thus gave insights into relevant issues of this endemic global issue to our students.
